Support the military on Armed Forces Day

by Bob Burns

On Armed Forces Day, May 18, the members of our Armed Forces who are deployed around the world as well as all of our military, will be honored with a Grand Parade.

Planned to show appreciation for all active and veteran service personnel, the parade will be staged along Sixth Avenue and will traverse through the center of downtown San Diego.

All communities are invited to participate and it is hoped that each will be represented in the celebration.

Get out that old uniform, mates, and see if you can squeeze into it. If not, the hat will surely fit, so you can wear that to identify your branch of the service. Lets have everyone represented and proudly support our military people.

A big party will be held at the parade's termination, behind Seaport Village. Anyone interested in participating in any capacity should call their City Hall for information. In Lemon Grove, call 464-6934 (Jack Shelver or Bob Burns).

Personal comments of Councilman Bob Burns

A nice, young lady accosted me at the bakery the other morning with a question: "How can you justify the high cost of building the trolley extensions when no one rides it?"

As we looked out of the large front window of the pastry shop, a string of four red trolley cars sped past with people standing, because all of the seats were full. The first of these passengers had to have boarded at Main St. in El Cajon, because that is the end of the line. So, Between there and Spring Street in La Mesa, the full capacity was attained. Capacity is considered to be 96 persons per vehicle at a comfort level - not fully packed.

A memo was circulated last week from Mr. Peter Tereschuck, the vice president of transportation of the San Diego Trolley, Inc. Recent passenger counts indicate that at the present time, at total of 1,394 passengers are traveling on the trolley every hour. This is on a 7.5 minute headway and the counts are at peak hours at the Imperial transfer station. At a 15-minute headway, a four car train will carry 1,536 riders per hour in an ideal situation where even distribution were to occur. This would be the ideal, and would be next to impossible to attain. Due to the structure of the cars, it is not possible to move from one car to another while in motion. Since this even distribution is difficult, the 7.5-minute headways are put into effect during certain peak hours to handle the masses that are obviously using mass transit in this instance.

The ridership on the south line has increased at an average rate of 15 percent since 1981. What Mr. Tereschuck has attempted to do is to extrapolate the future of the light rail system here in San Diego. A capacity of 1,920 passengers per hour will be achieved by going to a constant 7.5-minute headway, and a per-hour ridership of 1,843 passengers per hour will be reached by early 1993. At a 15 percent increase, it will be 2,119 by March, 1994 and top off at 2,300 in September of that same year. This means that the prediction is that sometime in 1994 it will become necessary to go to FIVE MINUTE headways. An increase to 3,072 passengers per hour will then be possible.

I relay this information because, number one, it is sound and dependable data; number two, ever since the beginning of the planning of the trolley line from downtown to the border was a glean in Maureen O'Connor's, Pete Wilson's and may other forward-thinking people's eyes, it has surpassed all expectations. Our wildest dreams of ridership have been shattered by bursting "possible" balloons. The opening of the Euclid segment, and ultimately, the El Cajon stretch, have all proven to be grossly underestimated in terms of ridership. Some politicians still think that the hordes of passengers who ride the trolley each day are "Lookie Loos." My answer to the lady was to just glance out there and see. or, better yet, to try it if she hasn't experienced the relaxation of the calmest trip downtown ever; to save the big dollars in parking downtown nowadays, and to know that she is not polluting the air with an internal combustion engine or clogging the freeways with her Thunderbird. For what it's worth, "Three out of four doctors recommend riding the trolley whenever possible."

Well, at least this one does.

Councilman Bob Burns will address matters of concern to Lemon Grove and its citizens. If you have questions or suggestions for Dr. Burns, send them to P.O. Box BB, Lemon Grove, CA 91946.

March of Dimes sponsors 'Walk America' to help stop birth defects

March of Dimes' "Walk America," the largest, most successful walking event in the nation, is just around the corner. Mark your calendar for Saturday, April 27, for the 25-kilometer event beginning in Sea World's east parking lot.

You must have at least one sponsor to walk. Contact the March of Dimes at 576-1202 for sponsor sheets.

"More than 8,000 walkers are expected to join us in contributing to our mission to help babies be born healthy," said Dick Freeman, Walk America chairman and president of the San Diego Padres baseball club.

The course of the walk will wind around West Mission Bay Drive and over the scenic Ocean Front Walk, around DeAnza Cove and finish back at Sea World.

Lexington and Concord revisited

by Paul Treske

Although for most Americans, the Fourth of July is the symbolic time for celebrating American independence, for those of us who once made our home in New England, it is the memory of two days in April, 1775 that stirs the blood. For those not schooled in the Northeast, the deeds of Lexington and Concord are a few fuzzy pages in a history book that are skimmed over and quickly forgotten. But what took place on April 18 and 19 in that fateful year not only started our war of independence, but, in many ways, stamped the American anatomy for centuries to come.

The Boston Tea Party and Boston Massacre were already history when, on the night of April 18, 1775, the warning went out that the British were on the move. The colonists had gained information that the British under General Gage were to march to Lexington a few miles away to attempt to capture revolutionaries John Hancock and Samuel Adams. They then intended to move on to Concord where the rebels were purported to have a supply of arms and ammunition.

History and Henry Longfellow made Paul Revere the hero of that night, although some historians tell us that he was quickly captured and others carried out the warning.

When the British arrived at Lexington, they found a ragged group of local militia on the green, opposing them. Fearful of the professional "Lobsterbacks," they nevertheless, remained in place. The British fired and some colonists fell while others fled and the Redcoats marched toward Concord. Swinging down a tree-lined lane toward the stream they found, across the rugged wooden bridge, a larger group of minutemen awaiting them. A hail of shots was exchanged, men on both sides fell and the British began a retreat toward Boston, during which they would lose many more to minutemen snipers. July 4, 1776, was still months away, but the war had at last begun. The farmer-soldiers had made their stand and an unstoppable force had been unleashed upon the world.

Today, Lexington Green is a public park were families can picnic and children play. But on a huge stone at one end of the Green is a plaque with the prophetic words of the colonists' commander: "Hold your fire men, don't fire unless fired upon. But if they mean to have a war, let it begin here."

Concord is a quiet town that does not use billboards to advertise its fame. One goes down the same lane of trees the British did more than two hundred years ago. First, there is an obelisk to mark where the British stood, then a simple wooden bridge, then the famous minuteman statue - a plow in one hand, a rifle in the other. And on the statue, reverberating in one's head and in the air around, run the words of Emerson that have touched the heart of a nation since written:

By the rude bridge that arched the flood
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled
Her once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard round the world.

From Where I Sit

Before the boob tube

by Frank Andrews

"Come hell or high-water, I'm going to have myself a radio before the next fight," were my Dad's determined words. He was referring to the famous world's heavyweight title bout between Jack Dempsey and the champ, Gene Tunney.

The year was 1927, and I was only five years old, but I remember the occasion just like it was yesterday (a typical symptom of growing old).

Dad did get his new Atwater-Kent battery-operated radio in time for the big fight. The huge, round loud speaker sat on top of the equally huge radio and was hooked up to a car battery that had to be recharged a couple of times a week.

We all huddled around the big new radio to hear one of the most famous boxing matches in history known as "the long-count" decision. Tunney retained his championship, even though Dempsey knocked him down, but he then failed to go to a neutral corner for the count.

After that heroic event, the radio was mine for the listening, and listen I did. The only other radio in the family that I can remember was a crystal set that my uncle listened to through ear phones. All it consisted of was a coil of wire and a piece of wire called a cat's whisker that rubbed against a small rock or crystal to find the station. I still can't figure how that worked.

After school, my head was buried in the speaker to hear my favorite programs: Jack Armstrong, "The All-American Boy," who won the fight for Hudson High with the help of Wheaties, "The Breakfast Food of Champions." Little Orphan Annie with her faithful dog, Sandy, and together with rich Daddy Warbucks, conquered all problems with the help of "Ovaltine."

I was allowed to stay up late and listen to everybody's favorites: Myrt and Marge that came on at 9:45 with my hero, Lawrence Tiffingtufer, to the theme music of "My Poor Butterfly." Then at 10 p.m., it was 15 minutes of Amos and Andy for Pepsodent with "The Kingfish" of "the Mystic Knights of the Sea," and "Lightnin' " of the "Open Air Taxi Company."

Others of my favorites were: Gang Busters, Orson Wells' Mercury Theater with the frightening "War of the Worlds" episode; Major Bowes' Original Amateur, "Round and Round She Goes, Where She Stops, Nobody Knows," First Nighter, "Smoking in the outer lobby only, Please!" "A hush comes over the audience, the curtain parts, and here is the first act in "The Little Theater off Times Square," starring Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne. Then there were the real scary ones: The Shadow with "Only the Shadow knows; " Lights Out, "It's later than you think. Lights out, everybody," and the real thriller, chiller, "Innersanctum."

You would have to be on Medicare to remember any of the radio shows that I have reminisced about here, but there again is another pleasure only us seniors can enjoy. It's called, nostalgia.

I believe that the "good old radio programs" were more exciting than our present-day television, as each listener could use his imagination instead of seeing every detail. For one thing, it eliminated all the sleazy sex that we see nowadays. The modern-day miracle of television has helped spread "the Good Word" but has also helped contaminate a whole generation.

The Healing Balm of Service

by Joseph Walker

Bless the beasts and the children,
For in this world they have no voice
They have no choice.

He can't be more than two years old. And yet, there is a lifetime of hurt in his eyes as he sits there in the cold, muddy bleakness of a Kurdish encampment in Iraq's barren northern mountains.

Perhaps you saw his photograph in the newspaper, too. And perhaps, you have been haunted, as I was, by his tousled blond hair, the pleading, desperate look on his dirt-smudged face, and the mud oozing between his bare toes.

It's a helpless feeling, isn't it, to know that there are thousands of people - including innocent children - suffering and dying, and that for all of our military might and technological superiority, we don't seem to be able to change that.

At least, not yet.

I know. I checked. I called several relief agencies and service organizations. Everyone expressed concern over the plight of the Kurds, but none could provide more comfort than, "we're doing everything we can."

"Look," I said to the last one, my exasperation clearly showing through, "We just finished a war in which hundreds of planes dropped tons of bombs everyday in the same general part of the world. Why can't we just send the planes out again, only this time, let's drop food and medicine and clothing and blankets instead of explosives?"

"We're already doing that to a certain extent," I was told, "and it isn't as simple as it sounds. Besides, there are procedures ..." "I'm sorry," I interrupted, "but do you really think these starving children care whether or not you follow the book?" OK, OK, I was losing it a little. But I was frustrated. And so was the woman on the other end of the line. Thankfully, she was able to maintain her composure a little better than I could. "I understand your concern, " she said, "I promise you, we really are doing everything we can. If you'd like to help, we can always use more money. It'll help us help them, and it'll make you feel better." So I wrote a check - but I didn't feel any better - I needed to actually do something, but I didn't know what.

Light their way when the darkness surrounds them.
Give them love. Let it shine all around them.

I was still feeling a little depressed as I walked home from the bus stop that evening. I almost didn't notice the little girl from down the street, or the soft whimpering that was coming from her as she sat on the curb in front of my neighbor's house. Then I saw her - tousled blond hair, dirty face, bare feet, and all. Instinctively, I went to her. "What's the matter, sweetheart?" I asked.

"Oweee!" was all the two-year-old could say between sobs, which were much more intense now that someone was paying attention. She was looking at her foot, and so I figured I should probably look there, too. Before too long, we found the splinter that had penetrated her heel, extracted it and carried her carefully home.

Walking from her house to mine. it occurred to me that I was somehow feeling much better. Not that my small service to a little girl in the neighborhood did anything to alleviate the suffering of the Kurdish boy I saw in the photograph. But it had alleviated a little suffering in my own corner of the world. And for now, that was the best I could do.

Which is not to say we should give up on doing anything about the human tragedy unfolding in the Middle East. Not by a long shot. It's our moral obligation to do all that we can to help ease pain and suffering wherever we see it. But, as long as we're feeling benevolent, let's not forget those who are hurting in our own backyard. Our neighbor's plight may not be as dramatic as that of the Kurds, but to them, it is every bit as real and oppressive. And the healing balm of service is as soothing to our souls whether we apply it locally - or long distance.

Bless the beasts and the children
Give them shelter from the storm
Keep them safe, keep them warm.

Opposed to hospital merger

Dear Editor:

The members of F.O.R.U.M. (Federation of Retired Union Members) in San Diego -Imperial Counties have voted unanimously in their meeting of April 9, 1991 to oppose the merger being proposed by Sharp Hospital with Grossmont Hospital.

We do not feel the information provided to the people living in the Grossmont Hospital District is sufficient to make this merger even seem to be in the best interest of those who need the services of this community hospital.

We also oppose any "give-away" program of our taxpayers' hospital to any private organization prior to a series of hearings where the public will have a chance to air their views and have their questions answered by representatives of both Sharp and Grossmont hospitals.

Very Sincerely,
Ken Paulson, Secretary

Joe Freed on the Movies

This week's movie: Mortal Thoughts

Maybe it's just me, but I don't remember ever being at a wedding where the bride and groom cursed at each other. And I've never heard of a groom accusing the bride's father of stealing wedding gifts.

That's because I wasn't invited to the wedding of James and Joyce Urbanski, the only people I know of who tried to beat each other up at their own wedding.

Here's the story: Cynthia Kellogg (Demi Moore) approaches Detective John Woods (Harvey Keitel), volunteering evidence against her best friend, Joyce (Glenne Headly). It seems that one night, not too long ago, Joyce grew tired of her husband, James' (Bruce Willis) wife-battering shenanigans, so she slit his throat. Then, she wanted Cynthia to help her cover up the murder, hide incriminating evident, lie to family members and comply with an assortment of demands which would ultimately try her loyalty. Becoming too much of a burden, Cynthia finally took her knowledge to the police and an investigation ensued. The question is, just how innocent is Cynthia? "Mortal Thoughts" fails as a thriller because of its simplistic plot, the work of writers William Reilly and Claude Kerven. There is nothing particularly mysterious or thrilling about the story, most anyone could figure out the "surprise" ending thirty minutes into the movie, so the writers' focus is on character reaction - instead of action. Unfortunately, Reilly and Kerven depend totally on an audience's fascination with characters which are not interesting, but repulsive. Even this development is limp, with the writers' relying solely on profanity to create mood.

James curses at Joyce, Joyce curses at Cynthia, Cynthia curses at James ... all right, we get the idea! There's nothing interesting about characters whose emotional range shifts from rage to ... rage.

Although working within the confines of the screenwriters' weak characterization, each actor delivers a strong performance which nearly salvages the film. Demi Moore thankfully resists melodrama and hysteria, and we don't have to deal with too many ghastly, "Ghost"-ly tears.

Instead, she develops the inner struggle, achieving an effective blend of emotion and reason. Moore took on a huge burden, portraying one of few protagonist characters, and she is quite compelling. Bruce Willis is good as James, although his role was the most simple ... he only had to act like a pig. Glenne Headly does an adequate job as the battered wife, but her transition from victim to psychopath is too quick and uneven. The major problem with her character is that the audience is supposed to feel sorry for her because she's married to James. I think Joyce is as big a pig as he, so they deserve each other. Harvey Keitel is strong and professional, as always.

Director Alan Rudolph, working closely with Director of Photography, Elliot Davis, did his best to improve the film from a visual standpoint, and he succeeds to a degree. The melding of flashback sequences with current events is handled nicely, and the film keeps a brisk pace. However, there wasn't much more Rudolph could do - it may have been wiser if he hadn't taken the job in the first place.

Achen to demonstrate watercoloring; Meyer to be featured artist at Foothills

Foothills Art Association will present Lew Achen at its May 2 meeting. Achen combines the memories of a childhood in Montana with many years in Japan. This gives an eastern style to his watercolor paintings which frequently contain subjects of the American West. Achen, a teacher of watercolors, will display his techniques to club members as well as the the interested public following the 7 p.m. meeting in the gallery at 8051 University Avenue.

Each month, Foothills Art Association has a featured artist from its membership. This month's featured artist is Betty Darby Meyer of La Mesa. A painter who uses oils and felt pens, Meyer's choicest works, featuring her rendition of the California Missions, will begin on May 3 and continue until June 6.

Other members of Foothills may submit one previously unseen work for showing in the gallery which will then be subject to judging by votes of the viewing public.

The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m to 4 p.m.

PUBLIC NOTICES

RESOLUTION NO. 91-27 OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF HELIX WATER DISTRICT AMENDING SECTION 4.9, "WATER CONSERVATION AND WATER EMERGENCY PLAN," OF THE DISTRICT'S POLICY AND PROCEDURES MANUAL, EFFECTIVE APRIL 17, 1991

WHEREAS, the Board of Directors of Helix Water District (hereafter referred to as "District") has held a series of public hearings for the purpose of receiving public input regarding adoption of a revised water conservation and emergency plan; and

WHEREAS, the hearings were duly and regularly noticed and convened at the Board Room of the District's Administrative Office and at said hearings all interested persons were given an opportunity to be heard; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Directors of the District finds that by reason of a limited water supply, and the prospect of a major failure of the supply and distribution facilities of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, the San Diego County Water Authority, and the District, due to earthquake or other disaster, it is necessary to adopt and enforce a water conservation program to significantly reduce water consumption, thereby extending the available water and minimizing the hardships on the general public and properties within the District;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of the Helix Water District, that Section 4.9 of the District's Policy and Procedures Manual be amended to read as follows:

SECTION: SECTION TITLE:

4.9 WATER CONSERVATION AND WATER EMERGENCY PLAN

4.9-1 POLICY

The District hereby establishes a comprehensive water conservation program pursuant to California Water Code Sections 375 through 377, based upon the need to conserve the water supplies and to avoid or minimize the effects of any future shortage.

4.9-2 FINDINGS

The District finds that a water shortage could exist based upon the occurrence of one or more of the following conditions:

(A) A general water supply shortage due to increased demand or limited supplies.

(B) A major failure of the supply, transmission, storage, and distribution facilities of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, the San Diego County Water Authority, or of the Helix Water District.

(C) Metropolitan Water District of Southern California (MWDSC) or the San Diego County Water Authority adopt measures, such as the MWDSC's Incremental Interruption and Conservation Plan (IICP) to effect reductions in water consumption.

The District also finds that the conditions existing in San Diego County require the water resources available be put to maximum beneficial use. The waste or unreasonable use of water shall not occur. The conservation of such water is encouraged to ensure the most reasonable and beneficial use.

4.9-3 CEQA EXEMPTION

The District finds that this policy and actions taken hereafter pursuant to this policy are exempt from the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) as specific actions necessary to prevent or mitigate an emergency pursuant to Public Resources Code Section 21080 (b)(4) and the California Environmental Quality Act Guidelines Section 15269 (c).

4.9-4 APPLICATIONS

The provisions of this policy shall apply to all persons, customers, and property served by the District.

4.9-5 DETERMINATION AND DECLARATION OF MANDATORY CONSERVATION GOALS OR WATER EMERGENCY

The Board of Directors, General Manager, or designee, shall access available data and declare the water conservation goals to be achieved as determined by the District or its suppliers. The general public shall be notified of the appropriate conservation goals by posting a notice thereof in the lobby of the District's Administrative Office. The declaration shall also be made public by publishing notices in newspapers of general circulation and issuing press releases, and by other publicity means.

The declaration of a water shortage emergency shall be by the Board of Directors after a public hearing held pursuant to Sections 350 and 352 of the Water Code unless the emergency is the result of a breakage or failure of a dam, pump, pipeline, or conduit, in which case the declaration may be made by the General Manager or his designee.

If the declaration of the water conservation goals or an emergency water shortage is declared by the General Manager or his designee, it shall be reported to the Board of Directors at its next regular meeting, at which time the Board shall ratify, modify, or rescind the declaration.

4.9-6 DURATION OF DECLARATION

The declaration of any water conservation goals or water emergency shall remain in effect until it is modified or rescinded.

4.9-7 WATER CONSERVATION MEASURES

No person shall knowingly use water supplied by the District contrary to the provisions of this policy. The following measures shall apply at all times and will be enforced by the District:

(A) At no time shall water be wasted or used unreasonably.

(B) Water shall not be allowed to leave the customer's property by drainage onto adjacent properties or public or private roadways or streets due to excessive irrigation and/or neglect.

(C) Customers shall be required to repair all water leaks within 48 hours of knowledge that a leak exists.

(D) Water shall not be used to wash down sidewalks, driveways, parking areas, tennis courts, patios, or other paved areas except to alleviate IMMEDIATE safety or sanitation hazards.

(E) The use of a hand-held hose for spraying, lawn watering, vehicle washing, or structure washing is prohibited without an automatic shut-off nozzle.

(F) Lawn watering or irrigation, other than by hand or by drip methods, is prohibited EXCEPT between the hours of 4:00 p.m. and 9:00 a.m. the following morning.

(G) Restaurants shall not serve water to their customers except when specifically requested.

4.9-8 WATER EMERGENCY MEASURES

Water emergency measures will be required when a water shortage emergency has been declared due to drought conditions or when a major failure of any supply or distribution facility, whether temporary or permanent occurs in the water distribution system of the State Water Project, the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, the San Diego County Water Authority, or Helix Water District facilities.

The following measures shall apply during a water emergency and will be enforced by the District:

(A) General Requirements

All water users are expected to minimize potable water use for the duration of the emergency.

Indoor uses will, in general, be reduced by such practices as fewer and shorter showers and baths, no running water while brushing teeth and shaving, full loads in dish and clothes washers, avoidance of unnecessary toilet flushing, frequent checking and repair of leaks, and other conservation practices.

(B) Additional Restrictions

Certain restrictions will apply from time to time as imposed by our water suppliers or as declared by the Board or General Manager and later ratified by the Board. Restrictions may include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) Irrigation of turf may be prohibited or restricted.

(2) Irrigation of ground cover may be prohibited or restricted.

(3) Outside irrigation of trees, shrubs, and other plants which are not turf or ground cover may be restricted and/or allowed only by hand-held hose with positive shutoff nozzle, bucket, or microirrigation systems/equipment.

(4) Filling of new residential pools and spas may be prohibited or restricted.

Draining of existing pools may be prohibited except under orders of the appropriate local health or building official.

(5) Operation of ornamental fountains may be prohibited.

(6) Washing of vehicles may be prohibited or restricted.

(7) New services may be restricted or prohibited. Construction or temporary connections may be turned off. Exceptions may be provided for:

(a) projects necessary to protect the public's health, safety, and welfare;

(b) when it can be demonstrated that no net increase in water use will occur; or

(c) when a conservation offset is provided.

(C) Definitions

(1) "Conservation offset" means the implementation of proven conservation techniques which, when installed, will result in a reduction equal to demand of the proposed use. Calculation of demand and saving shall be performed or verified by the member agency or the General Manager based upon nondrought conditions.

(2) "Microirrigation systems/equipment" means low-pressure, low-volume methods of water application. These devices include drip emitters, T-tape, microsprayers, minisprinklers, twirlers, and spaghetti tubing. Pop-up sprinklers are not considered low-volume, low-pressure irrigation systems/equipment.

(3) "Potable water" means water delivered by a member agency which meets drinking water standards or water delivered by the San Diego County Water Authority.

4.9-9 APPEALS PROCEDURE

Any customer desiring to initiate a penalty appeal may do so within five days of receipt of penalty notice. Any such complaint or request must be in writing and filed with the District Review Manager. Customers shall have the right to appeal the decision to the District Board of Directors by filing a written appeal within seven days of the decision of the Review Manager.

4.9-10 PENALTIES

Any violation of this policy is a misdemeanor (California Water Code Section 377). In addition or as an alternative, at any time, violators are subject to flow restrictions or termination of service. In addition or as a further alternative, the District may impose the following charges for violation of any water conservation measure:

First violation, customer notification of the violation.

Second violation, monetary penalty of 25% of the previous bill or $250, whichever is less.

Third violation, monetary penalty of 50% of the previous bill or $500, whichever is less.

Fourth violation, monetary penalty of 100% of the previous bill or $1,000, whichever is less.

This policy shall become effective as of the date of adoption and pursuant to California Water Code Section 376; within ten (10) days hereof a copy of this resolution shall be published in The Lemon Grove Review, a newspaper of general circulation printed, published, and circulated in the District.

Helix Happenings

by Kristina Ruiz-Healy

Helix High School's "slave day" took place on Friday, April 19. Slaves did such things from sweeping the halls to scattering rose petals before their "master's" footsteps. Jamie Stout, a "master," said, "I made them walk around in goofy clothes, dance in the halls and walk me to class." She owned two slaves from 7:45 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. "It was great fun" she added.

Congratulations! Hats off to Julie Pilkington and Karen Cohen who are both finalists in the Bank of America Achievement Awards program. Karen will be competing in Applied Arts and Julie in Liberal Arts.

Helix High School drama club has been rehearsing for its spring play, "Ten Little Indians," by Agatha Christie. Ed Peroy plays the lead as Philip Lombard.

"Our cast and crew is outstanding and very hard-working," said Peroy. The club will be performing the play May 25 25.

"I am extremely excited to be part of the play, and overwhelmed, considering I play the lead role as a sophomore," he added.

Scottie Spirit will continue to be the best. Cheerleading tryouts were held on Wednesday, April 17 at 2:30 p.m. Congratulations to next year's varsity cheerleaders.

Candy Wood, Kayley Trujillo, Tony Lupo, Jill Rosenberger, Stacy Bodenstadt, Jessica Williams, Darleen Barnes, Jessica Nunes, Sharla Reep, Melissa Kinney, Elsa Perea and Cottie Norris.

"We hope the team will be strong, as well as have a great time," said Jill Rosenberger.

Super used book sale! There will be a used book sale at Helix High School Monday, April 22 through Friday, April 28 in room 320.

Congratulations to this week's Helix All-Star 'A' team.
